Note: In 1991, an atheist Turkish Army commander ordered fighter planes to blow up two peaks just above another large piece of Noah’s Ark, covering it. Scientists have determined explosions covered this piece. This is likely the piece seen 14 years earlier, in 1977, from Air Force One with President Jimmy Carter on board (see following article by Daniel P. McGivern, who showed satellite imagery on Mt. Ararat at the National Press Club in April, 2004).

Noah’s Ark was also seen by dozens of World War II U.S. and Allied pilots and crews, including Vince Will. He was the late friend of expedition leader Richard Carl Bright, who led the find of this large piece by ground penetrating radar this summer.